

Learning in New Ways

Children have the opportunity to try new things.

Kids can explore new experiences.

kids have new experiences

Support parents with resources---kids need the right book to be engage.

kids connect experiences to library resources

Kids have new experiences

Explore while trying new things.

Connecting to resources outside of the library everyone can access the opportunity

Children have the opportunity to take risks.

kids are comfortable to participate

Provide an environment where children can engage with their peers.

kids develop social skills

Learning in groups-kids learn watching and practicing.

Kids get the chance to try hands on experience

Programs that kids interested in Freedom to create trial and error

Ability to make mistakes and try again.

Youth of various ages can learn together in groups.

kids collaborate together

Provide an example of how to facilitate growth.

multiple literacies

Provide educational tools for children to learn

Kids explore concepts in a fun ways

Kids can take risks by trying things outside of their schema

Kids feel safe when they know expectations but are free to explore.

Ability/Freedom to explore new ideas/ask questions.

Provide a place to observe other behaviors

Kids learn in new environment / learning outside of home.

Kids connect to library staff

Provide an environment that peaks children's curiosity

Children are given multiple ways to learn.

kids learning through doing.

Programs for youth and families at Appleton Public Library provide opportunities for patrons to:

Make connections

Engage Socially and Emotionally

Learn through doing

Take Risks

Explore the New

Develop a love of reading